Terddumri Company Limited Explores
Major Hydrogen Investment Project
in Egypt

Meeting with clients at the Ministry of Transport in Cairo.

19:20

Cairo / Mersa Matruh, Egypt — Representatives of Terddumri Company Limited and its Swiss-German joint venture partner recently held meetings with clients and representatives connected to the Ministry of Transport in Cairo, Egypt, to discuss a major industrial investment project focused on hydrogen development.

The planned project involves the development of a 1,000-ton-per-day hydrogen-related plant in Egypt, with an estimated investment volume of approximately EUR 500 million. The initiative reflects Terddumri Company Limited's continued commitment to international infrastructure, energy, and industrial development projects.

As part of the visit, the delegation also inspected the proposed project area near Mersa Matruh, including the Port of Gargoub, located on Egypt's Mediterranean coast. The site visit provided an opportunity to evaluate the strategic location and potential infrastructure conditions for the planned project development.

Mr. Dieter Filler, CEO of COINVOLTA AG, Switzerland, participated as a Swiss-German business and joint venture partner of Terddumri Company Limited.

The discussions in Egypt form part of Terddumri Company Limited's broader international business activities and its ongoing efforts to promote large-scale investment cooperation between Thailand, Europe, and partner countries in the Middle East and Africa.

Terddumri Company Limited will continue to coordinate with its international partners, financial institutions, and relevant government-related offices to further develop and support future investment opportunities.
